Abstract

Introduction: According to the study the author presented in a 9TH Webinar On Healthcare-Health Economics and Policy that was held in February 09, 2021 London UK, she said that the type of medication that we need to prescribe will depend on the type of population that we have nowadays.

Purpose: the purpose of this study is that the author is showing that the type of population that we have nowadays is very different from the type of population that we had before 2015, where she noticed that in the past, the majority of the population have energy in the internal massive organs (Liver, Heart, Spleen, Lungs and Kidney).

Methods: through one study that the author did from 2015 to 2020, studying and measuring a 1000 chakras' energy centers. The chakras are energy concentrations that are usually invisible by the naked eyes and are important to send energy to the entire cell, organs, glands and systems to their proper functioning.

Results: the results of this study was that more than 90% of her patients were in the lowest level of energy (rated in one) with exception of the seventh that was normal (rated in eight). She understand that this result could be a sample of what could be happening in the whole globe nowadays because this lack of energy is caused by the influences of the electromagnetic radiation of the modernization of telecommunication (5G) and the use of highly concentrated medications can reduce even more this energy, that is already very low, leading to many other complications, formations of new other diseases and more propensity to have diabetes, hypertension, myocardial infarction, strokes, cancer among others. According to Arndt Shultz Law, created in 1888 by two German researchers, they said that highly concentrated medications can reduce the vital energy and the use of highly diluted medications can increase this vital energy, and this effect that we need to obtain in the treatment of our patients nowadays.

Conclusion: the conclusion of this study is that, due to the alterations in the energy pattern of our population, becoming very low in energy, there is the necessity to change the type of medication in the treatment of our patients to highly diluted medications (homeopathies) because we need to increase our vital energy and not decrease even more, and that is why, homeopathy is the medication of election in the treatment of the majority of diseases nowadays.
